DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election with traverse of Group I, claims 1-4 and 6-10 in Paper No. 6 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that "the search an examination of the entire application could be perform without serious burden". This is not found persuasive because in the Office Action of Paper No 5, the examiner demonstrated burden in view of the different classifications of the two inventions as well as that the search required for the invention of Group II is not required for the invention of Group I.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

Drawings

Figures 5 and 6 should be designated by a legend such as --Prior Art-- because only that which is old is illustrated. See MPEP § 608.02(g). A proposed drawing correction or corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-4 and 6-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Applicant's Admitted Prior Art described with respect to figures 5 and 6 of the instant application (hereafter AAPA) in view of US 6,476,333 (hereafter Khandros).

AAPA discloses a case, a battery within the case, a circuit board connected to the battery, wherein the circuit board comprises a board and an external terminal portion extending from an opening in the case. AAPA does not disclose that the terminal is constructed of a plural metal layers, laminated upon each other, each having a different metal material. Khandros teaches, an interconnecting elongate terminal formed of multiple laminated metal layers (see figure 3 and corresponding description). Therefore, it would have been obvious, to one having ordinary skill in the art, at the time of invention, to use the plural laminated metal layered terminal taught by Khandros in the invention of AAPA. The motivation for doing so would have been to provide a flexible external terminal [claims 1, 3, 6, 10]. Furthermore, the core and shell(s) terminal taught by Khandros could be formed of any of a number of metal layers, including iron, copper, nickel, aluminum and their alloys depending on the strength and conductive properties needed. It would have been obvious to an artisan of ordinary skill to select the proper combination of materials based on the desired properties. Moreover, it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of obvious design choice. In re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416 [claims 2, 4, 7, 8]. Similarly, an artisan of ordinary skill would also be able to determine the range of workable ratios of the laminated metals to each other. Furthermore, it has been held that where the general conditions of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, discovering the optimum or workable ranges involves only routine skill in the art. In re Aller, 105 USPQ 233 [claim 9].

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
